

Minutes of the CSSS meeting of July 24th 2002

In Attendance:

Name:

Noah Adams

declared

Brandon Pun

Andrew Yang

Sigal Blay

Doug Bruvall

Ian Ho

declared

Mike McBratney

Eugene Chin

Bishnu Bhattacharyya

attendance list with his extraordinarily long last name, also declared

Sundee Parmar

Colin Johnston

Excuse for being there:

threatened at gunpoint, erm, I mean

declared

general hanger-on declared

declared

president of tenant's assoc., also declared

declared

to screw up the formatting of the math

el presidente, declared

President's report:

-The web site is back! Das is good. Additionally, as soon as room in CSIL is cleaned out, we will move lemma in. Mwuahahaha, finally, all the pieces are falling together...

VP-R's report:

-Rob is not here, but things are going well, and we have developed a large stockpile of pop and paper. In the event of nuclear holocaust, our ability to sell pop and photocopies will remain unaffected by the utter devastation of the surrounding world.

VP-A's report:

-The all important social: It has been proposed to get the foosball table from the engineers, though they would like a rather hefty deposit and a guarantee of no damage, they probably just want a new foosball machine on our tab... or maybe I'm just overly suspicious of our natural enemies, the engineers, then again, how can you really be overly suspicious of them, with their oscilloscopes and digital multimeters and whatnot...

-Social planning continues, social committee will in fact meet in person soon to settle outstanding issues that they'd rather not present here for fear of embarrassment, and also because they like putting things off.

-Doug pulls out a list of off campus activities Angelica has proposed, mainly attending fireworks. Though normally heretic ideas that involve things along the lines of leaving campus would be quickly rejected by the unwashed masses of the CSSS, a good old fashioned retinal scarring sounds fun right about now.

Secretary's report:

-We got minutes, we got minutes, we got lots and lots of minutes, minuuuuuutes

-Noah motions to approve the minutes of the meetings dated June 26th and July 10th, Mike McBratney seconds motion passes

-Noah also proposes that we hold the election on the first wednesday of classes, as it will mean we get stuff settled early, and first years get a better introduction to the CSSS than electing strangers into positions of power over them. This way those strangers seize power without the first years even knowing... it seems generally approved of.

Treasurer's report:

-We got a cheque from the SFSS (a loan in fact), Ian suggests putting this into something high interest so we can get something out of it.
-No big financial problems in the near future, so long as our massive investment in WorldCom bears fruit.

Open Floor:

-Sundeep is here, this is somewhat suspicious... Sundeep wants to talk LAN Party IV, he proposes that we hold it in a netcafe. Noah, and many of the most vocal members of csss-active much prefer and on-campus lan party. And as Noah is currently in charge of maintaining the records of the csss, those records will show that he had overwhelming support of the rest of the membership...

-Mike tells us about the golf event put on by business students that he attended. It was meant primarily for networking, and though it was primarily financial institutions and the like, he was able to get some potential tech fair leads

-Ian motions to approve $50 for LAN party IV, Bishnu seconds, motion carries

-Eugene motions to adjourn at 4:30, nobody in opposition, the room is vacated, next stop, elections! Hi-Ho Silver!